SHIELDS—GRAVES.—In the presence of numerous friends and amid a profusion of floral decorations, Miss Dora Graves, and Mr. Willard Shields, both of this city, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, at the residence of the bride's parents. The nuptial ceremonies were performed in the left corner of the parlor which was beautifully decorated with maiden hair ferns, white pinks, and violets. The young couple stood under an arch of ferns. The bride wore white silk over white taffeta, with chiffon trimmings, and carried bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Lillian Graves, who wore a handsome gown of blue nun's veiling, over white silk. The groom was attended by Mr. George Pierce, an intimate friend. As the happy couple entered the room, Miss Stella Marshall played Lohengrin's wedding march. At the conclusion of the nuptial ceremonies, the guests repaired to the reception room, which was appropriately decorated with roses, where the happy couple were showered with congratulations. Later Richardson, the caterer, served a sumptuous wedding repast in the dining room, which was decorated with roses. At nine o'clock the happy couple left the house amid a shower of rice, and good wishes, and departed on the nine-twentyfive train for Boston, from where they will leave for the south to spend their honeymoon. After March first they will be at home to their friends.
